The National Alliance to End Homelessness Nan Roman, President

March 30, 2007

The National Alliance to End Homelessness (the Alliance) is a nonpartisan, nonprofit organization that has several thousand partner agencies and organizations across the country. These partners are local faith-based and community-based nonprofit organizations and public sector agencies that provide homeless people with shelter, transitional and permanent housing, and services such as substance abuse treatment, job training, and physical health and mental health care. In addition, we have supported over 160 state and local entities who have completed ten year plans to end homelessness. The Alliance represents a united effort to address the root causes of homelessness and challenge society's acceptance of homelessness as an inevitable by-product of American life.

Overview – Our recent research report, Homelessness Counts, estimates that 744,313 people are homeless on any given night. This includes 98,452 families. Fifty-six percent of the total were living in shelters or transitional housing and 44 percent were unsheltered. This report illustrates that far too many people are homeless and many are not being reached by existing programs. This is inexcusable given that we know what interventions work and several communities are making progress toward ending homelessness. These interventions, such as housing first for families and permanent supportive housing, couple housing with an appropriate level of services for the family or individual. Therefore, not only does the Department of Housing and Urban Development play a role in ending homelessness, so do the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education. We call on Congress and all federal agencies to adequately fund the programs that assist states and local entities in developing permanent housing and the necessary social services to once and for all end homelessness for all Americans.

Goals

1. Moving Forward to End Homelessness – Communities across America are working toward ending homelessness. Communities are using federal, state, and local funds to help homeless persons maintain housing. It is important that this progress not be undermined. To this end, the Alliance recommends the following:

- Allocate an additional $80 million for services in permanent supportive housing within SAMHSA's Center for Mental Health Services.
  - Increase funding to Projects for Assistance in Transition from Homelessness (PATH) to $58.3 million.
  - Increase the Runaway and Homeless Youth Act Programs to $140 million.
  - Provide a $200 million increase in the Community Health Center program within Health Resource Services Administration. This would result in the Health Care for the Homeless programs receiving $190 million.
  - Fund Education for Homeless Children and Youth services at its full authorized level of $70 million.
  - Increase funding for the Homeless Veterans Reintegration Program to $50 million.
2. Connecting Homeless Families, Individuals, and Youth to Mainstream Services – People experiencing homelessness also depend on mainstream programs such as the ones below to live day to day and once housed, remain housed. The Alliance recommends the following to meet this goal:
- Fund the Social Services Block Grant at $1.7 billion, the same funding level as FY 2006.
  - Reject cuts and fund the Community Services Block Grant at $700 million
  - Appropriate $60 million in education and training vouchers for youth exiting foster care under the Safe and Stable Families Program.

Goal #1 - Moving Forward to End Homelessness

Support Services for Permanent Supportive Housing Projects

*The Alliance recommends allocating an additional $80 million for services in permanent supportive housing within SAMHSA's Center for Mental Health Services. The Administration has set a goal of ending chronic homelessness by 2012 and joined with Congress to set a goal of creating 150,000 additional units of permanent supportive housing. According to the Alliance's report, Homelessness Counts, 23 percent of those who are homeless on any given night meet the chronic homelessness definition of being homeless for long periods of time or repeatedly. These people need access to housing and support services. The Alliance and our partners believe the Department of Health and Human Services needs to raise its commitment to provide the services necessary to end homelessness. Therefore, we are proposing this increase in SAMHSA funding to help communities provide services to 16,000 new units of permanent supportive housing.*

Projects for Transition Assistance from Homelessness (PATH)

The Alliance recommends that Congress increase PATH funding to $58.3 million and adjust the funding formula to increase allocation for small states and territories.

The PATH program provides access to mental health services for homeless people with serious mental illnesses. PATH focuses on outreach to eligible consumers, followed by help in ensuring that those consumers are connected with mainstream services, such as Supplemental Security Income (SSI), Medicaid and welfare programs. Under the PATH formula grant, approximately 30 states share in the program's annual appropriations increases. The remaining states and territories receive the minimum grant of $300,000 for states and $50,000 for territories. These amounts have not been raised since the program was authorized in 1991. To account for inflation, the minimum allocation should be raised to $600,000 for states and $100,000 for territories. Amending the minimum allocation requires a legislative change. If the authorizing committees do not address this issue, we hope that appropriators will explore ways to make the change through appropriations bill language.

Runaway and Homeless Youth Programs

The Alliance recommends funding the Runaway and Homeless Youth Act (RHYA) programs at $140 million. RHYA programs support cost-effective, community and faith-based organizations that protect youth from the harms of life on the streets. The problems of homeless and runaway youth are addressed by the Administration for Children and Families within HHS, which operates coordinated competitive grant programs like RHYA. The RHYA programs can either reunify youth safely with family or find alternative living arrangements. RHYA programs end homelessness by: engaging youth living on the street with Street Outreach Programs, quickly providing emergency shelter and family crisis counseling through the Basic Centers, or providing supportive housing that helps young people develop lifelong independent living skills through Transitional Living Programs. Recently, the Congressional Research Service issued a report complimenting the good work of RHYA programs but detailing the gaps in services due to limited funding. It is essential that Congress increase this program.

Community Health Centers and Health Care for the Homeless (HCH) programs

The Alliance recommends a $200 million increase to the Community Health Centers Program which would result in funding the HCH programs at $190 million.

Persons living on the street suffer from health problems resulting from or exacerbated by the condition of being homeless, such as hypothermia, frostbite, and heatstroke. In addition, they often have infections of the respiratory and gastrointestinal systems, tuberculosis, vascular diseases such as leg ulcers, and hypertension.<sup>1</sup> Health care for the homeless programs are vital to prevent these conditions from becoming fatal. Congress allocates 8.7% of the Consolidated Health Centers account for Health Care for the Homeless (HCH) projects. The HCH program has achieved significant success since its inception in 1987, but the health care needs of Americans experiencing homelessness each year far exceed the service capacity of Health Care for the Homeless grantees.

Education for Homeless Children and Youth

The Alliance recommends funding Education for Homeless Children and Youth (EHCY) at its full authorized level of $70 million. The most important potential source of stability for homeless children is school. The mission of the Education for Homeless Children and Youth program is to ensure that these children can continue to attend school and thrive. The Education for Homeless Children and Youth program, within the Department of Education's Office of Elementary and Secondary Education, removes obstacles to enrollment and retention by establishing liaisons between schools and shelters and providing funding for transportation, tutoring, school supplies, and the coordination of statewide efforts to remove barriers.

Homeless Veterans Reintegration Program (HVRP)

The Alliance recommends that Congress increase HVRP funding to $50 million.

HVRP, within the Department of Labor's Veterans Employment and Training Service (VETS), provides competitive grants to community-based, faith-based, and public organizations to offer outreach, job placement, and supportive services to homeless veterans. HVRP is the primary employment services program accessible by homeless veterans and the only targeted employment program for any homeless subpopulation. It is estimated that this program only reaches about two percent of the overall homeless veteran population. An appropriation at the authorized level of $50 million would enable HVRP grantees to reach approximately 19,866 homeless veterans.

Goal #2 – Connecting Homeless Families, Individuals and Youth to Mainstream Services Social Services Block Grant (SSBG)

The Alliance recommends that Congress fully restore SSBG funding to its FY 2006 level of $1.7 billion. SSBG funds are essential for programs dedicated to ending homelessness. In particular, youth housing programs and permanent supportive housing providers often receive state, county, and local funds which originate from the SSBG. As the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development has focused its funding on housing, programs that provide both housing and social services have struggled to fund the service component of their programs. This gap is often closed using federal programs such as SSBG.

Community Services Block Grant (CSBG)

The Alliance recommends that Congress fully restore CSBG funding to its FY2006 level of $630 million. Funding cuts for the CSBG will destabilize the progress communities have made toward ending homelessness by not only ending services directly provided by CSBG funds but limiting a community's ability to access other federal dollars such as those provided by HUD. Community Action Agencies (CAAs) are directly involved in housing and homelessness services. In several communities, CAAs lead the Continuum of Care (CoC). CoCs coordinate local homeless service providers and the community's McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Grant application process with the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

In the fiscal year 2004 Community Services Block Grant Information Systems report published by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, CAAs reported administering $207.4 million in Section 8 vouchers, $30 million in Section 202 services<sup>2</sup>

<sup>2</sup> Section 202 is dedicated to housing from elderly and disabled individuals and families and $271.1 million in other Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) programs which includes homeless program funding<sup>3</sup>.

Foster Youth Education and Training Vouchers

The Alliance recommends that Congress appropriate $60 million in education and training vouchers for youth exiting foster care under the Safe and Stable Families Program. The Education and Training Voucher Program offers funds to foster youth and former foster youth to enable them to attend colleges, universities and vocational training institutions. Students may receive up to $5000 a year for college or vocational training education. The funds may be used for tuition, books, housing, or other qualified living expenses. Given the large number of people experiencing homelessness who have a foster care history, it is important to provide assistance such as these education and training vouchers to stabilize youth, prevent economic crisis, and prevent possible homelessness.

Conclusion - Homelessness is not inevitable. As communities implement plans to end homelessness, they are struggling to find funding for the services homeless and formerly homeless clients need to maintain housing. The federal investments in mental health services, substance abuse treatment, employment training, youth housing, and case management discussed above will help communities create stable housing programs and change social systems which will end homelessness for millions of Americans.
